

APPD1001

Assignment 04

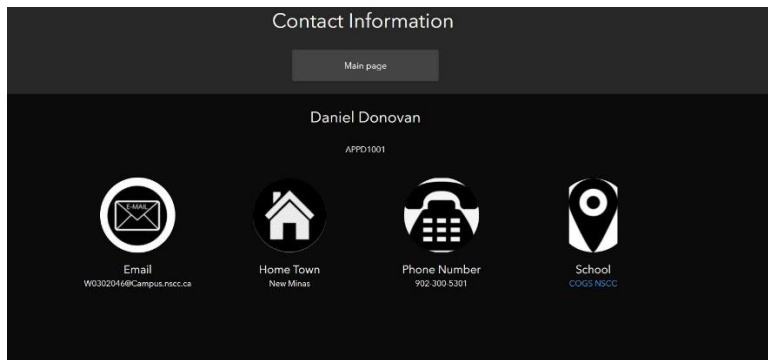

By: Daniel Donovan

Making the storyboard:

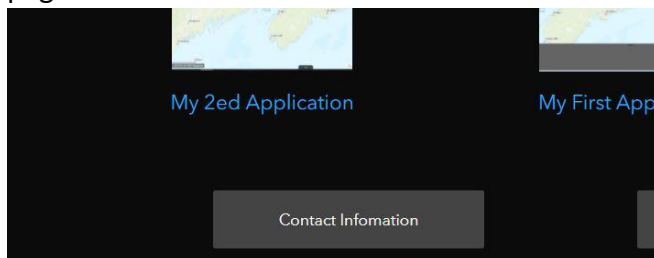

From what you can see by the provided picture I ended up making a base concept on how I was going to be adding my next pages and how they will interconnect from within the application

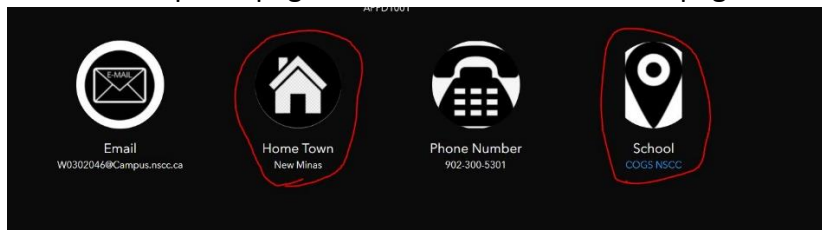

The first new page I added was a general contact info page.

For this page I added a button on the home page which one can be able to get access to this page.

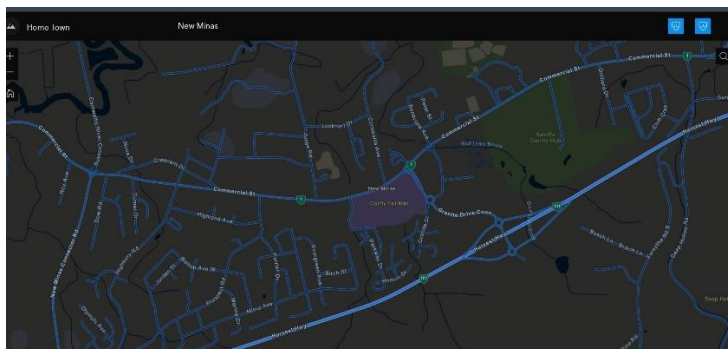

The next couple of pages can connect to these new pages from there.

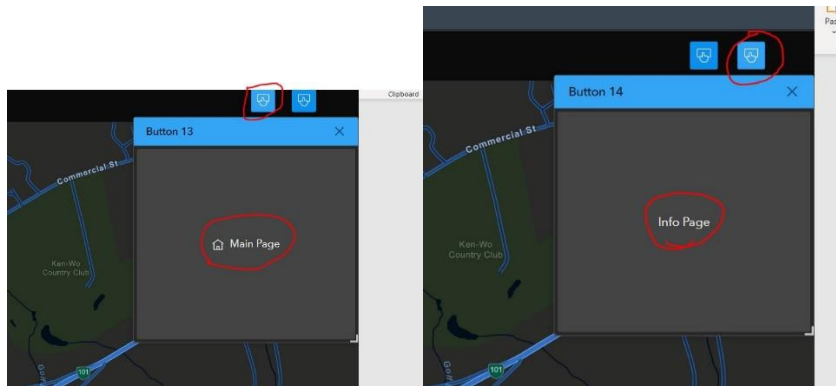

Each will take you to a couple different pages.

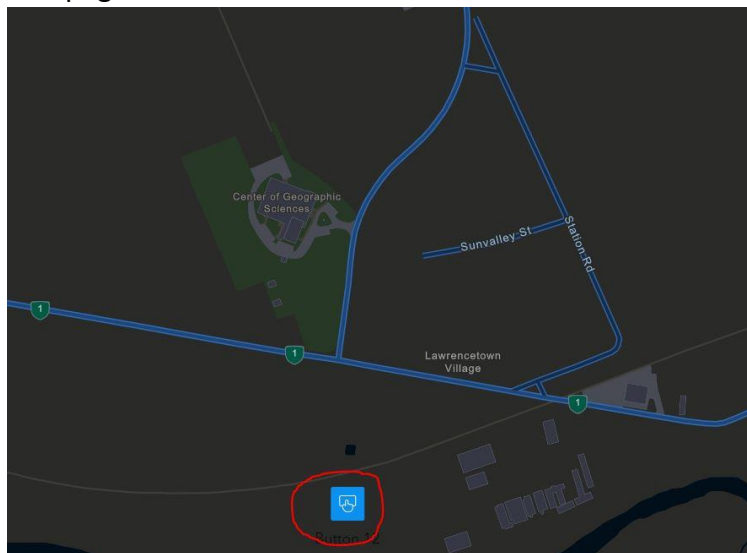

The Hometown button will take you to a map page which will give an overview of the area.

On this page you can see two buttons at the top which will take you back to the previous page and the other will take you back to the home page

The last page I added was the school page link, which will take you to an overview of the school which is where I am taking this class. Which also have a button that will take you back to the info page

From what you can see I was able to make my project off the storyboard that I made and kept the same visual style across the whole project and have it all interlinked.